

Please do not weaken Indiana's privacy act by allowing this group to contact its customers for marketing purposes. It has been a peaceful few years not being bothered continually by these pests. It is bad enough that we are bombarded almost daily with the mailings they send, are we going to have to put up with the calls again? My parents are in their 80's and can't hear well. Calls from these companies make their lives miserable. We should have the right to choose if we want to be solicited in our own homes. The FCC should find that their right to do business does not override our right to privacy.
